

HIV/AIDS RESOURCE GUIDE

If you are HIV-positive or think that you may be HIV-positive, there are a number of community organizations that are funded by the government to help you. It doesn't matter whether you have insurance or not; or whether you are documented or not. Medical Care, including HIV testing, treatment and medicines are FREE for people with low-incomes and/or who do not have insurance.

If you are sexually active, it is recommended that you take an HIV test two times each year. If you are HIV-positive, it is important that you get into a clinic so that a qualified medical provider can monitor your health. Don't let fear or lack of insurance or money stop you from taking care of your health.

The following is a list of agencies that can help you get tested and if needed, medical treatment. If you are HIV-negative, there are staff in these agencies that can help you learn to stay that way. So, it's best to call before you go in.
